EKG/ECG Technician

Effective January 2025

Description

The Electrocardiograph Technician operates the equipment that records and measures the activity of the heart. These recordings are used to assist the cardiologist and physicians in diagnosing and treating cardiac problems. Learners in this course will study heart anatomy and physiology, focusing on normal and abnormal cardiac rhythms. Learners will perform ECGs in the student lab. ECG Technicians are employed in hospitals, clinics, sleep study centers and rehabilitation centers.
